Changing of The Guards

A couple of humbling moments occurred this week that really gave me real encouragement and confidence for the future of the Church.

First, Ruth and I were able for the first time since 2019, to go back to Camp Blue Haven , to see a lot of friends we haven't seen in a while. This was encouraging enough, but as we looked around what we saw was a second generation stepping up to lead a camp of 200 youth. (I know these names may not mean much to some of you, but...) Mark & Rhonda Hackett had kids there teaching, John & Denise Tolbert's kids were there, and one is on the Board, David & Deana Goodnights' kids were there teaching, David and JoDee Denman's kids were there teaching, David and JoLynn Kelly's kids were there teaching, and of course Ruth and my kids were there teaching. 200 youth showed up to grow.

Beyond this, we had a group of teens and adults who left for Houston to minister to some 100 inner city youth for the week.

This group was led by Jeff Horton (parents are Alton and Shannon Horton) and Kournthey Horton (parents are Duane and Kristie Vincent), Darren Williams JR ( parents are Darren Sr. and Charmain Williams), and Ruth and my kid, Bruce.

Along with them, 8 youth chose to spend a week of their summer in service to others.

We have men and women teaching, leading, mentoring, serving, moving widows furniture onto a Uhaul, men preaching in my place, men preaching in Seminole, and on and on it goes.

Then Sunday night I taught Ecclesiastes to the students in Cambodia where Solomon speaks to the fact that growing old stinks. Our bodies wear out and we grow slower...could be discouraging and overwhelming, huh?

But weeks like this one serve as a reminder...that the changing of the guards is part of the life cycle in the church. The older ones step back (not out of the picture...just to a different role) and the younger ones step up, and ministry continues on.

God's plan is so amazing. And it should do us well to step back at times and see the bigger picture in awe.

I thank all my brothers and sisters as we continue this journey together. I consider it an honor to serve side by side with you, teaching along with you, and sharing Jesus in every chance we are given.

And this is just 1 week..... Our God is so good!
